ADVERTISEMENT.

Early in the year 1805, a Classed Catalogue and Supplement, compiled by Mr George Sandy, who then held the Office of Librarian, were printed for the use of the Society. Towards the end of the following year, a Supplement of additions made in the interval, entitled Supplement Second, was annexed by the present Librarian, to the volume compiled by Mr Sandy; that Gentleman at the same time contributing an Index to the whole, in order to complete the volume according to his original design.

During the period which has elapsed since the Classed Catalogue and its Supplements were printed, the Library has been enriched with numerous additions, in several of the most interesting and important departments of Literature and Science. The present volume contains an Alphabetical Catalogue of these additions; and it is hoped, that by means of it, the Society will be enabled, both to judge of the progress of the Institution during the period mentioned, and to enjoy a fuller use of the valuable accessions which it has received.

Signet Library, July 1820.

The whole remaining copies of the Alphabetical Catalogue printed in 1820 having been destroyed, or so much injured as to be rendered unfit for use, by fire in the premises where they were reposited, and this accident having occurred after the printing of the Catalogue of additions since that year, was considerably advanced, it became necessary to reprint the former, in a separate volume, as before. The present impression is now accordingly offered to the Society.

Signet Library, September 1826.
